EMAIL ETIQUETTE TRAINING COURSE OUTLINE

FOREWORD

A new international workplace survey has found that 83% of Singaporeans use email, Internet, or both while at work and most are convinced it makes them more productive.

The survey found that the use of online communications has extended across most of the workforce with only 9% using neither email nor Internet. Both men and women were equally enthusiastic users of email and the Internet and those in the 25-54 year old age bracket were intensive users.

In this age of technology, email is the preferred and often most efficient form of communication, yet many organizations overlook putting a policy into place regarding the etiquette that should be followed by all staff.

Issues like bullying, sharing jokes and pictures and other inappropriate content should be highlighted with rules put into place about what is and what is not allowed when using internal or external email communication.

In an increasingly knowledge-based economy, it is critical that information is widely accessible and able to be utilized effectively in the workplace. It is also vital that organizations develop policies to guide employees on the correct use of online communications. These should cover issues such as privacy, personal use, monitoring, downloading of content, access by third parties and illegal use of the Internet.
